

UMBRELLA STORIES.

Remarkable Events in Which Rain Protectors Figured Largely.

Anecdotes Related by "The Evening World's" Readers.

Lost, Strayed, Stolen and Recovered Under Peculiar Circumstances.

It's Mollie's Favorite.

I'm a "used-up old thing." I have a broken rib, a sad rent in my side, and am battered and bent. There is one, however, who gazes at me fondly and strokes me with delight.

"Twas one evening that my little lady, bound for a call on a sick friend, took me with her. We had not gone far when Miss Mollie was accosted by a stranger, who insolently asked if he might see her home."

My little lady was much frightened and indignantly as well, and grasping me firmly she hurried her steps. But when that long-legged brute I stepped his foot on her, she quickly turned and dealt him blow after blow. If she didn't believe him well, then my name isn't Mollie. She was, at the sound of a deep "do you wish to help Mollie?" in our rear the wild creature fled and brother Ben half-carried poor little Mollie home, crying.

Now, when mamma suggests that "the old thing" be given to the umbrella man, my little lady takes me from the peg, where I hang, puts me back again, and says "wretch!" and puts me back again.

It Found Him a Friend.

Through the medium of a lost umbrella I had the good fortune to make the acquaintance of one who afterwards proved to be my best friend.

Fifteen years ago, while travelling from Mainz to Coblenz, I left my umbrella upon the hat rack in the train. The loss grieved me inasmuch that it was a birthday gift from my parents, but no amount of research could find it, whereupon, five years later it was returned to me, when I learned the following story:

The gentleman sitting next to me in the train discovered the forgotten umbrella and brought it down by looking in "Lost and Found." But I had failed in this precaution, therefore he retained it.

Upon the handle was engraved my name and city, and knowing the ill-faror in which the owner keeps a lost umbrella, this gentleman determined, no matter what to restore it, possibly for a joke.

Consequently, when he emigrated to this country he found my address in the directory and called upon me. At the present day we are most intimate friends.

H. A. H.

A Cure for Scolds.

While stooping with a friend in Newark last summer my attention was attracted to a crowd of people evidently enjoying, yet somewhat afraid of the antics of something that was skipping around like a kangaroo, but with greater powers of vocalization.

It was a scolding woman, on a rampage, painting the scold with her tongue. While cursing mankind in general, she was noticed to stop suddenly, twist, struggle and kick, but all to no avail.

On approaching I found that she had the crooked handle of an umbrella firmly wedged between her jaws. While scolding she had been passing unperceived the scold suspended on the awning of an umbrella store and had accidentally closed her mouth on one.

The owner of the umbrella said that although he was fond of fishing he did not care to have his umbrella used as a bobbin for snapping turtles of that description. He was, finally, extricated and the woman departed.

THEODORE MCCARTHY.

Fortune and Misfortune.

To the Editor:

I thought myself fortunate one day after boarding an elevated train for Harlem that I found a handsome gold-mounted umbrella resting against the seat which I occupied.

After admiring it for some time I found that I had gone beyond my station, so I hastily stepped off at the next stop, carrying my prize proudly with me. I considered my act dishonourable the more I thought about it and the next day I notified the superintendent in charge of found articles.

Not hearing of any owner I considered myself lucky until last week while on my way to a theatre, of course carrying the umbrella, in company with a lady, I was tapped on the shoulder and without questioning placed under arrest and escorted to the police station.

After telling my story and giving satisfactory references as to my identity I was allowed to depart, but minus the umbrella.

The cause for my arrest, as afterwards explained, was owing to a daring burglary which occurred in the house occupied by the owner of the valuable parasite.

M. M. K.

An Eighty-seven-Year-Old Umbrella.

To the Editor:

I have in my possession an umbrella that in its eighty-seven years of existence has never been lost nor stolen.

It was brought to this country in May, 1803, by my grandmother, Mrs. Letitia A. Nisbit, and how long she had owned it before that time I cannot tell.

It still retains the original green silk covering, which is not even creased nor impaired, with the exception of a small hole which I accidentally tore in it last summer while "crabbing" in the Hackensack River.

The umbrella has rattan ribs, tipped with ivory, and ivory-tipped handle, with solid brass trimmings and ferrule.

A price of above value, not only a memento of my grandparent, but also an example of the days when umbrellas were built for use and wear, not merely for ornament. It is still as good as the family umbrella at my home, 65 Jewett avenue.

WM. NISBIT BAUGH, ex-Metroplitan Policeman.

In a Hole.

A rather funny incident happened to a friend of mine, which I think will bear repeating.

Going out one rather stormy-looking day, and his umbrella being at the store for repairs, he borrowed his son's. Stopping, however, at the store, he found his own umbrella required, and he charges $2, so he started off again with the two umbrellas.

In the meantime the clouds had disappeared and the sun was shining, so he thought himself of a truce and whose place of business he would pass and with whom he could leave the umbrellas.

His request being granted, he started to place the umbrellas in a corner among some papers. No sooner had he placed them there than they disappeared. The owner was in a market, the market over a

NOTES OF THE STAGE WORLD.

Miss Hattie Harvey's Account of Her Visit to Mme. Patti.

How the Diva Lives and Entertains Her Friends.

Little Miss Hattie Harvey, who has just returned from Europe, where she was the guest of Mme. Adelina Patti, at Craig's-Craig-Castle, Wales, has an interesting story to tell of the delights of her sojourn with the diva. In fact Miss Harvey, who is going to start this season in "A Little Tramp," tells justly elated and privileged she has enjoyed and does not forget to let one know that she is sufficiently familiar with the celebrated songbird to call her "Adelina" with easy grace.

"I said May 10," said Miss Harvey yesterday, "arrived at Craig's-Craig-Castle, Wales, at 10 o'clock. I was with Patti all the time, and twice when she went to London I accompanied her. She gave two concerts at the Royal Albert Hall, you know. I shall never forget my visit. In London we went to a reception given by Baron Alfred Rothschild. The Prince of Wales was there and took Patti down to the opera. The city with an umbrella hoisted over him, I motioned for him to come across the avenue, which, by the way, was very muddy from showers during the night. As he came up to me I said: 'Good morning, sir. Are you going to the city?' He replied that he was. 'Well,' I said, 'I have an umbrella for you, fair ground, and need your umbrella,' at the same time pulling a silver dollar out of my pocket. He looked thunder-struck, but when I handed him the umbrella I took his umbrella and he walked off towards the city in the pouring rain with out any aid."

C.

Quaker City Thrift.

In May, 1876, on the morning of the opening day of the Centennial, the writer was side-tracked in a Pittsburg sleeper in the Pennsylvania Railroad depot at Philadelphia. Upon finding that the street cars would not commence to run until 6 o'clock, I started about 5 A. M. to walk, and actually came to the Centennial grounds. When about half way to Fairmount Park a very heavy shower came on. Seeing a man on the opposite side coming towards the city with an umbrella hoisted over him, I motioned for him to come across the avenue, which, by the way, was very muddy from showers during the night. As he came up to me I said: 'Good morning, sir. Are you going to the city?' He replied that he was. 'Well,' I said, 'I have an umbrella for you, fair ground, and need your umbrella,' at the same time pulling a silver dollar out of my pocket. He looked thunder-struck, but when I handed him the umbrella I took his umbrella and he walked off towards the city in the pouring rain with out any aid."

C.

SELF-MURDERED AT SIXTEEN.

A Jersey Schoolboy Hangs Himself Rather Than Go to School.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 10.—Nathan Irving Albert, Jr., a lad sixteen years of age, who lived with his parents on Cottage place in this village, committed suicide last night by hanging himself in a shed.

The boy left the house at 9 o'clock. At bedtime he had not returned, and the family grew alarmed.

Five years later it was returned to me, when I learned the following story:

The gentleman sitting next to me in the train discovered the forgotten umbrella and brought it down by looking in "Lost and Found." But I had failed in this precaution, therefore he retained it.

Upon the handle was engraved my name and city, and knowing the ill-faror in which the owner keeps a lost umbrella, this gentleman determined, no matter what to restore it, possibly for a joke.

Consequently, when he emigrated to this country he found my address in the directory and called upon me. At the present day we are most intimate friends.

H. A. H.

A Cure for Scolds.

While stooping with a friend in Newark last summer my attention was attracted to a crowd of people evidently enjoying, yet somewhat afraid of the antics of something that was skipping around like a kangaroo, but with greater powers of vocalization.

It was a scolding woman, on a rampage, painting the scold with her tongue. While cursing mankind in general, she was noticed to stop suddenly, twist, struggle and kick, but all to no avail.

On approaching I found that she had the crooked handle of an umbrella firmly wedged between her jaws. While scolding she had been passing unperceived the scold suspended on the awning of an umbrella store and had accidentally closed her mouth on one.

The owner of the umbrella said that although he was fond of fishing he did not care to have his umbrella used as a bobbin for snapping turtles of that description. He was, finally, extricated and the woman departed.

THEODORE MCCARTHY.

Fortune and Misfortune.

To the Editor:

I thought myself fortunate one day after boarding an elevated train for Harlem that I found a handsome gold-mounted umbrella resting against the seat which I occupied.

After admiring it for some time I found that I had gone beyond my station, so I hastily stepped off at the next stop, carrying my prize proudly with me. I considered my act dishonourable the more I thought about it and the next day I notified the superintendent in charge of found articles.

Not hearing of any owner I considered myself lucky until last week while on my way to a theatre, of course carrying the umbrella, in company with a lady, I was tapped on the shoulder and without questioning placed under arrest and escorted to the police station.

After telling my story and giving satisfactory references as to my identity I was allowed to depart, but minus the umbrella.

The cause for my arrest, as afterwards explained, was owing to a daring burglary which occurred in the house occupied by the owner of the valuable parasite.

M. M. K.

An Eighty-seven-Year-Old Umbrella.

To the Editor:

I have in my possession an umbrella that in its eighty-seven years of existence has never been lost nor stolen.

It was brought to this country in May, 1803, by my grandmother, Mrs. Letitia A. Nisbit, and how long she had owned it before that time I cannot tell.

It still retains the original green silk covering, which is not even creased nor impaired, with the exception of a small hole which I accidentally tore in it last summer while "crabbing" in the Hackensack River.

The umbrella has rattan ribs, tipped with ivory, and ivory-tipped handle, with solid brass trimmings and ferrule.

A price of above value, not only a memento of my grandparent, but also an example of the days when umbrellas were built for use and wear, not merely for ornament. It is still as good as the family umbrella at my home, 65 Jewett avenue.

WM. NISBIT BAUGH, ex-Metroplitan Policeman.

In a Hole.

A rather funny incident happened to a friend of mine, which I think will bear repeating.

Going out one rather stormy-looking day, and his umbrella being at the store for repairs, he borrowed his son's. Stopping, however, at the store, he found his own umbrella required, and he charges $2, so he started off again with the two umbrellas.

In the meantime the clouds had disappeared and the sun was shining, so he thought himself of a truce and whose place of business he would pass and with whom he could leave the umbrellas.

His request being granted, he started to place the umbrellas in a corner among some papers. No sooner had he placed them there than they disappeared. The owner was in a market, the market over a

MRS. BURKE-ROCHE'S DIVORCE.

Summons Served by Publication Upon Her British Husband.

The Object of Her Residence in Delaware Almost Accomplished.

The necessary residence in Delaware having been gained, Mrs. Fanny Burke-Roche, nee Work, has caused to be served upon her British husband, by publication, a summons to appear before the Superior Court at Wilmington Monday next and answer the allegations of petition.

This summons, signed by Sheriff Allen, of New Castle County, makes no specification of the action, but it has been perfectly understood by the fair petitioner's New York friends that she had taken up her abode in Delaware for the purpose of obtaining a divorce without being obliged to pass through the ordeal necessary to an action for absolute divorce in this State.

Fanny Work was the belle of New York society when, at twenty years of age, she met James Boothby Burke-Roche in London in 1880. Her father, the well-known Frank Work, tried to dissuade her from her fascination, but to use his own words:

"She was young and, like too many American girls, was ambitious to make a European marriage. She was bent on marrying Burke-Roche, and I had to make the best of it."

TEUTONIC COMES IN FIRST.

From Queenstown to Sandy Hook in 5 Days, 20 Hours, 54 Minutes.

City of New York Beaten Nearly Three Hours on the Voyage.

It is the White Star line's turn to brag and feel well to-day, for the Teutonic has turned the tables upon the fleet City of New York and beaten the Ironsides from Queenstown to Sandy Hook by two hours and forty minutes.

The ocean racer left Queenstown almost together on Tuesday afternoon last, the City of New York slipping her moorings at 2:45 o'clock and the Teutonic beginning her voyage at 3:11 o'clock.

The Teutonic crossed Sandy Hook bar at 2:30 o'clock, and, having secured the westward, has age in 5 days 20 hours and 54 minutes.

The City of New York crossed the bar at 9:34, having made the voyage in 5 days 22 hours 19 minutes.

This performance of the Teutonic does not mark any record, but such a pace would have started even travellers even five years ago.

On her last westward voyage the Teutonic claimed to have crossed the Atlantic in 5 days, 10 hours and 55 minutes, but this record was disputed. On one voyage she performed the feat in 5 days, 21 hours and 55 minutes, or thirty-nine minutes better than on the occasion.

The Teutonic reached her pier at 9:30, Purser Russell, who is the most affable as well as the handsomest officer of the White Star fleet, says:

"The voyage was practically uneventful. We did not meet a single iceberg, and we were distant from the vessel Sunday evening, and Sunday and Monday we had a brisk southwest gale. The first day we had 20 to 30 miles of wind, and the second day, 40 to 50 miles. The total run was 2,774 miles."

There was no sickness on board, except that nearly half the passengers thought nothing of changing their dress a dozen times to entertain their guests. Then she sang the waltz from "Rococo" and "Honey Sweet Honey." The latter is simply magnificent. I wish I could describe it, but I cannot. The procession of the Prince and Princess of Wales, but was not finished in time. So it will be regularly opened next August. We had private theatricals three several times.

On six occasions we had tableaux, in which I took part. I thought I thought nothing of changing their dress a dozen times to entertain their guests. Then she sang the waltz from "Rococo" and "Honey Sweet Honey." The latter is simply magnificent. I wish I could describe it, but I cannot. The procession of the Prince and Princess of Wales, but was not finished in time. So it will be regularly opened next August. We had private theatricals three several times.

On six occasions we had tableaux, in which I took part. I thought I thought nothing of changing their dress a dozen times to entertain their guests. Then she sang the waltz from "Rococo" and "Honey Sweet Honey." The latter is simply magnificent. I wish I could describe it, but I cannot. The procession of the Prince and Princess of Wales, but was not finished in time. So it will be regularly opened next August. We had private theatricals three several times.

Quaker City Thrift.

In May, 1876, on the morning of the opening day of the Centennial, the writer was side-tracked in a Pittsburg sleeper in the Pennsylvania Railroad depot at Philadelphia. Upon finding that the street cars would not commence to run until 6 o'clock, I started about 5 A. M. to walk, and actually came to the Centennial grounds. When about half way to Fairmount Park a very heavy shower came on. Seeing a man on the opposite side coming towards the city with an umbrella hoisted over him, I motioned for him to come across the avenue, which, by the way, was very muddy from showers during the night. As he came up to me I said: 'Good morning, sir. Are you going to the city?' He replied that he was. 'Well,' I said, 'I have an umbrella for you, fair ground, and need your umbrella,' at the same time pulling a silver dollar out of my pocket. He looked thunder-struck, but when I handed him the umbrella I took his umbrella and he walked off towards the city in the pouring rain with out any aid."

C.

SELF-MURDERED AT SIXTEEN.

A Jersey Schoolboy Hangs Himself Rather Than Go to School.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 10.—Nathan Irving Albert, Jr., a lad sixteen years of age, who lived with his parents on Cottage place in this village, committed suicide last night by hanging himself in a shed.

The boy left the house at 9 o'clock. At bedtime he had not returned, and the family grew alarmed.

Five years later it was returned to me, when I learned the following story:

The gentleman sitting next to me in the train discovered the forgotten umbrella and brought it down by looking in "Lost and Found." But I had failed in this precaution, therefore he retained it.

Upon the handle was engraved my name and city, and knowing the ill-faror in which the owner keeps a lost umbrella, this gentleman determined, no matter what to restore it, possibly for a joke.

Consequently, when he emigrated to this country he found my address in the directory and called upon me. At the present day we are most intimate friends.

H. A. H.

A Cure for Scolds.

While stooping with a friend in Newark last summer my attention was attracted to a crowd of people evidently enjoying, yet somewhat afraid of the antics of something that was skipping around like a kangaroo, but with greater powers of vocalization.

It was a scolding woman, on a rampage, painting the scold with her tongue. While cursing mankind in general, she was noticed to stop suddenly, twist, struggle and kick, but all to no avail.

On approaching I found that she had the crooked handle of an umbrella firmly wedged between her jaws. While scolding she had been passing unperceived the scold suspended on the awning of an umbrella store and had accidentally closed her mouth on one.

The owner of the umbrella said that although he was fond of fishing he did not care to have his umbrella used as a bobbin for snapping turtles of that description. He was, finally, extricated and the woman departed.

THEODORE MCCARTHY.

Fortune and Misfortune.

To the Editor:

I thought myself fortunate one day after boarding an elevated train for Harlem that I found a handsome gold-mounted umbrella resting against the seat which I occupied.

After admiring it for some time I found that I had gone beyond my station, so I hastily stepped off at the next stop, carrying my prize proudly with me. I considered my act dishonourable the more I thought about it and the next day I notified the superintendent in charge of found articles.

Not hearing of any owner I considered myself lucky until last week while on my way to a theatre, of course carrying the umbrella, in company with a lady, I was tapped on the shoulder and without questioning placed under arrest and escorted to the police station.

After telling my story and giving satisfactory references as to my identity I was allowed to depart, but minus the umbrella.

The cause for my arrest, as afterwards explained, was owing to a daring burglary which occurred in the house occupied by the owner of the valuable parasite.

M. M. K.

An Eighty-seven-Year-Old Umbrella.

To the Editor:

I have in my possession an umbrella that in its eighty-seven years of existence has never been lost nor stolen.

It was brought to this country in May, 1803, by my grandmother, Mrs. Letitia A. Nisbit, and how long she had owned it before that time I cannot tell.

It still retains the original green silk covering, which is not even creased nor impaired, with the exception of a small hole which I accidentally tore in it last summer while "crabbing" in the Hackensack River.

The umbrella has rattan ribs, tipped with ivory, and ivory-tipped handle, with solid brass trimmings and ferrule.

A price of above value, not only a memento of my grandparent, but also an example of the days when umbrellas were built for use and wear, not merely for ornament. It is still as good as the family umbrella at my home, 65 Jewett avenue.

WM. NISBIT BAUGH, ex-Metroplitan Policeman.

In a Hole.

A rather funny incident happened to a friend of mine, which I think will bear repeating.

Going out one rather stormy-looking day, and his umbrella being at the store for repairs, he borrowed his son's. Stopping, however, at the store, he found his own umbrella required, and he charges $2, so he started off again with the two umbrellas.

In the meantime the clouds had disappeared and the sun was shining, so he thought himself of a truce and whose place of business he would pass and with whom he could leave the umbrellas.

His request being granted, he started to place the umbrellas in a corner among some papers. No sooner had he placed them there than they disappeared. The owner was in a market, the market over a

SPORTS OF THE ATHLETES.

Aquatic Experts to Swim for a Gold Watch.

Lively Interest in the Scully-Wiedman 100-Yard Match.

The oarsmen of the Harlem are anticipating an entertaining diversion Sept. 21, when an "amateur regatta" will be held off New's Grand View Park. The regatta will commence at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The events will comprise senior single sculls, quarter of a mile dash, double sculls, junior, half mile, double scull, 200, 400, 800, 1,600, 3,200, 6,400, 12,800, 25,600, 51,200, 102,400, 204,800, 409,600, 819,200, 1,638,400, 3,276,800, 6,553,600, 13,107,200, 26,214,400, 52,428,800, 104,857,600, 209,715,200, 419,430,400, 838,860,800, 1,677,721,600, 3,355,443,200, 6,710,886,400, 13,421,772,800, 26,843,545,600, 53,687,091,200, 107,374,182,400, 214,748,364,800, 429,496,729,600, 858,993,459,200, 1,717,986,918,400, 3,435,973,836,800, 6,871,947,673,600, 13,743,895,347,200, 27,487,790,694,400, 54,975,581,388,800, 109,951,162,777,600, 219,902,325,555,200, 439,804,651,110,400, 879,609,302,220,800, 1,759,218,604,441,600, 3,518,437,208,883,200, 7,036,874,417,766,400, 14,073,748,835,532,800, 28,147,497,671,065,600, 56,294,995,342,131,200, 112,589,990,684,262,400, 225,179,981,368,524,800, 450,359,962,737,049,600, 900,719,925,474,099,200, 1,801,439,850,948,198,400, 3,602,879,701,896,396,800, 7,205,759,403,792,793,600, 14,411,518,807,585,587,200, 28,823,037,615,171,174,400, 57,646,075,230,342,348,800, 115,292,150,460,684,697,600, 230,584,300,921,379,395,200, 461,168,601,842,758,790,400, 922,337,203,685,517,580,800, 1,844,674,407,371,035,161,600, 3,689,348,814,742,070,323,200, 7,378,697,629,484,140,646,400, 14,757,395,258,968,281,292,800, 29,514,790,517,936,562,585,600, 59,029,581,035,873,125,171,174,400, 118,059,162,071,746,250,342,348,800, 236,118,324,143,492,500,684,697,600, 472,236,648,286,985,001,379,395,200, 944,473,296,573,970,758,790,400, 1,888,946,593,147,941,517,580,800, 3,777,893,186,295,883,125,171,174,400, 7,555,786,372,591,766,250,342,348,800, 15,111,572,745,183,532,697,600, 30,223,145,490,367,065,395,200, 60,446,290,980,734,131,171,174,400, 120,892,581,961,468,262,342,348,800, 241,785,163,922,936,524,684,697,600, 483,570,327,845,873,104,941,517,580,800, 967,140,655,691,746,250,342,348,800, 1,934,281,303,483,492,500,684,697,600, 3,868,562,606,966,985,001,379,395,200, 7,737,125,213,933,970,758,790,400, 15,474,250,427,867,941,517,580,800, 30,948,500,855,735,883,125,171,174,400, 61,897,001,711,471,766,250,342,348,800, 123,794,003,422,943,532,697,600, 247,588,006,845,887,065,395,200, 495,176,013,691,774,131,171,174,400, 990,352,027,383,548,262,342,348,800, 1,980,704,054,767,096,524,684,697,600, 3,961,408,109,534,193,104,941,517,580,800, 7,922,816,219,068,386,213,171,174,400, 15,845,632,438,172,772,342,348,800, 31,691,264,876,345,545,684,697,600, 63,382,529,752,691,091,379,395,200, 126,765,059,505,382,171,174,400, 253,530,119,010,764,342,348,800, 507,060,238,021,528,684,697,600, 1,014,120,476,043,057,369,395,200, 2,028,240,952,086,114,738,790,400, 4,056,481,904,172,477,580,800, 8,112,963,808,354,955,161,600, 16,225,927,616,709,913,323,200, 32,451,855,233,419,826,646,400, 64,903,710,466,839,653,292,800, 129,807,420,933,679,307,585,600, 259,614,841,867,358,615,171,174,400, 519,229,683,734,717,230,342,348,800, 1,038,459,367,469,434,460,684,697,600, 2,076,918,734,938,869,131,171,174,400, 4,153,837,469,877,738,262,342,348,800, 8,307,674,939,755,476,524,684,697,600, 16,615,349,879,510,953,104,941,517,580,800, 33,230,699,759,021,906,213,171,174,400, 66,461,399,518,043,412,426,400, 132,922,799,036,086,854,852,800, 265,845,598,072,173,711,766,250,342,348,800, 531,691,196,144,347,423,532,697,600, 1,063,382,392,288,694,847,065,395,200, 2,126,764,784,577,389,691,091,379,395,200, 4,253,529,569,157,779,382,171,174,400, 8,507,059,138,315,558,344,342,348,800, 17,014,118,276,631,116,688,684,697,600, 34,028,236,553,262,233,379,395,200, 68,056,473,106,524,466,758,790,400, 136,112,946,213,050,933,548,262,342,348,800, 272,225,892,426,101,869,104,941,517,580,800, 544,451,784,852,203,738,213,171,174,400, 1,088,903,565,707,407,426,426,400, 2,177,807,131,414,814,852,852,800, 4,355,614,262,829,629,705,705,600, 8,711,228,525,659,259,411,411,200, 17,422,457,051,318,818,822,822,400, 34,844,914,102,637,637,637,600, 69,689,828,205,275,275,275,200, 139,379,656,550,550,550,500, 278,759,313,101,101,101,100, 557,518,626,202,202,202,200, 1,115,037,252,404,404,404,400, 2,230,074,504,808,808,808,800, 4,460,149,009,617,617,617,600, 8,920,298,019,235,235,235,200, 17,840,596,038,470,470,470,400, 35,681,192,076,940,940,940,900, 71,362,384,153,881,881,881,800, 142,724,768,307,763,763,763,600, 285,449,536,615,527,527,527,200, 570,899,073,231,055,055,055,000, 1,141,798,146,462,110,110,110,100, 2,283,596,292,924,220,220,220,200, 4,567,192,585,848,440,440,440,400, 9,134,385,171,696,880,880,880,800, 18,268,770,343,392,761,761,761,600, 36,537,540,686,783,523,523,523,200, 73,075,081,373,566,566,566,200, 146,150,162,747,133,133,133,100, 292,300,325,494,266,266,266,200, 584,600,650,988,532,532,532,200, 1,169,201,301,976,064,064,064,000, 2,338,402,603,952,128,128,128,100, 4,676,805,207,904,256,256,256,200, 9,353,610,415,808,512,512,512,200, 18,707,220,831,616,024,024,024,000, 37,414,441,6